

the problem for artists on their way to becoming the artist
is that art captures them and most become artists destroying themselves as they succumb or surrender.

it is the unintentional emotions of obsession formed in the unshared darkness and neurotic ruins of its former inhabitants.

but nothing seems to explain thoroughly the destruction at their feet and their attraction
to live in a paradise of whips.

art captures them.
wf.h.
2022