

there is a certain level of confusion when you take the larger view of things.
i listen as the morning arrives with the birds beginning to sing their ongoing sacred songs that belong to the universe.
i accept the beauty of this moment.

the porch cat looks up at me as if i am a fool... he knows that they are not all the same birds as yesterday.

breakfast.
wf.h.
2019