as a child i watched the dark fragments of clouds swarm around the moon…
small images of the divine playing solitaire and i knew the bats were hiding there… in the spiritual notes of a music teacher with alcoholic hands pretending not to miss some of the black keys.

i still have some difficulty with knowing whether things can invent themselves or if there is a dealer.

childhood lessons.
wf.h.
2011