

wanting nothing less than empirical evidence of what happens in the center of the universe i decided to approach it with experimental data.
telling them i could prove what happens and how it happens.
judging by the laughter
at the lack of my scientific credentials it was clear that i was the joke.

telling everyone to move to the other side of the room the experiment began... setting up a surveillance camera in the small closet to start recording the interior events i turned off the single overhead light in the now dark closet
and closed the door.
epic science requires
epic words...
ladies and gentlemen
please turn your attention to the monitor
there is nothing wrong
with the blank screen
this may take a while.

empirical evidence.
