

everything that was done wrong seemed
for the most part
to be gradual
and spread into intervals that were self forgiving when young.
older they have become condensed and restless
in the shorter time left.
the time that does
not have time
to dilute.
there are several reasons why old people drift off
but there is a time when all the reasons meet in the middle.
deciphered or not.
felt or not.
intuitions that are gradually
leaving the room
without invitations to be somewhere else
leaving the lies as facts which cannot be disputed.
everything that was not wrong is storied
in our myths
everything that was wrong is storied
in our myths
all these mythic truths exist when heaven opens up to weigh the debts.

how much does a feather weigh
if the scale does not balance.
there is only one thing
to do.
right or wrong.
steal the scales and put the feather in your hat.

everything that was done.
