

it seems aging includes the skin separating from the body in small folds and small creases in gravity saggings.

do you try to find the middleman even if you do everyone will notice the noticeable incisions the drooping earlobes elongated noir sinister pinched eyebrows fat pockets of poorly removed fat asymmetrical eyelids unless you become more distant or just move in low lighting or ply the tombstone creases with emulsification or biologics or try to find uplifting products or mud baths or machine tans or hair replacement or people accepting pay to say marvelous or eye brighteners or wear disguise clothing or move with youth herds for camouflage or just go gothic and accessorize with flamboyant resistance.

it seems to me that it would be better if not better then it would be easier to find someone else more like you so you do not find yourself more like someone else.
