

born to lose
or just a plain loser
not much of a distinction can be made always falling short of placing first in competitions.

i was told about another contest and the shame of it was that i was a remote contender.
failure does not even require my presence.

someone turned water into wine...
the best i could do was
turn water into blood.

how is that i am a failure
when i get to live...

well without wine
how can victory be enjoyed.
