

ascending the mountain that the locals consider sacred
the shaman guide pointed at a rock and told me
that one has a soul.

please explain why...

well that rock killed a man.
we do not know if the man was good or evil.
we only know that was the rock that killed him.

please explain why
the rock that kills a man has a soul and does that mean that the rock that does not kill a man does not have a soul...

if it did not kill it would not need a soul.

please explain why
i should be paying you to be my guide with such stupid stories that pretend to be mystical when they are just pure nonsense...

i have two rocks
one in my left hand
the other in my right hand and i know which one is the spiritual one and it wants to be paid.

please explain.
