

when does existence cease.

does it cease to exist

when your image no longer exists

when you liquify into a soup that no one wants for dinner

when your monument crumbles and becomes a dust allergy

when everyone is tired of you and your existence when no one cares if you ever existed

when no one wants you to exist again

when no one exists to remember you.

there are so many ways not to exist...

this is the burden of existence.

the burden.
