

as i understand it
the soul exists

and does not have to struggle to exist.

it has some bestowed protective immutability

but it is also attached to good and evil and the heresies of its carrier.

you would think the soul would have been given the choice and not the carrier...

but there you are in the heavenly order of things.

the soul must wear

the clothes provided by a tailor who said he never missed a stitch.

next goat please.
