

we have never not existed.
in the forever of this form in the forever of not the last form in the forever of the unsayable form in the forever of the unthinkable form. should we say
until existence does not exist....

but we cannot.
there is no imagination that can exist where it cannot exist

did it start
did it not start
where did it start where did it not start is the beginning a need is the beginning a need for what does not end is the ending what never had a beginning to end what is the reason for no reason.

it may be that when we created differentiation or were created for it with its sense based faith... the cessation of an existence in a meaningful way occurred and we were field scattered in the spiritual seeds of a nothingness thinking it was a somethingness.

where can you worship that.
