

wondering if i was stuck in archaic attitudes feeling a little awkward talking to the drag queen about archetypes and individuation barriers and impacts limits and boundaries the queen used to holding court waved her hand over her head displacing the rancid air of historical condemnations and laughed saying... well dear
            some people are more attached to the necessity of gravity than the possibilities of imagination.

wondering if i was stuck.
